Man in fleeing vehicle shot by Calgary officer

Firearm discharged. Police officer opens fire after two pedestrians struck as suspicious vehicle ‘sped away’

ROBSON FLETCHER
robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

A Calgary cop shot a man in a vehicle after it struck two pedestrians as it attempted to flee from officers outside a bank in the city’s northwest on Tuesday afternoon.

Police were alerted to the “suspicious vehicle” in the 100 block of Crowfoot Way N.W. at about 3:40 p.m., according to spokesman Kevin Brookwell.

When a uniformed officer approached the vehicle to investigate, Brookwell said the driver “sped off.”

“In doing so it mounted a sidewalk and struck two elderly pedestrians,” he said. “Shortly after that point, uniformed officers challenged the driver in the vehicle.”

An officer then shot one occupant of the vehicle, Brookwell said.

The man who was shot was taken to hospital in serious condition, according to police.

The two pedestrians were also taken to hospital, Brookwell said.

Area resident Nicole, who didn’t want her last name published, said she heard two gunshots while walking up to a nearby Dairy Queen and then saw a police vehicle racing toward the scene.

“It came around the corner really quick and whipped down this road,” she said. ”I thought he was going to crash into the post right here because he flew down so fast.”

At about 5:20 p.m., police began escorting people from inside a nearby bank into a waiting Calgary Transit bus outside.

Brookwell said the incident didn’t appear connected to the bank, and it wasn’t immediately clear how or why the vehicle initially came to the attention of police.

All he could say Tuesday evening was: “We wanted to speak to the people inside.”

Alberta’s Serious Incident Response Team has been called in to examine evidence and will be taking the lead on the investigation, he added.

Nicole said the incident was shocking and way out of character for the neighbourhood.

“I’ve been living here for seven years and this never happens,” she said.

Alberta promises better disaster response after 2nd Slave Lake review

Two years ago, some people in the northern Alberta town of Slave Lake were told to leave their homes, some didn't realize they should, and still others didn't understand the urgency until flames were at their front door.

A review released Tuesday details the initial panic, confusion and tension when wildfires ripped through the community on May 15, 2011.

Roughly one-third of the town was destroyed.

Consulting firm KPMG, in a 200-plus page report, made 19 recommendations to improve the province's disaster response planning.

Municipal Affairs Minister Doug Griffiths said the government accepts all the suggestions and has already implemented most of them.

"We knew what we needed to improve upon," Griffiths said following a disaster conference in Banff, where planning officials from North America discussed lessons learned from such disasters as the Slave Lake fires and Hurricane Katrina.

"A lot of people recognize what we bring to the table and they're coming to learn from us."

The review found that the evacuation and the disaster response were not ideal, but deemed them ultimately successful because no one died.

Lets make 'Hail Mary' for compost funding: Nenshi

Late in the game. Applying now to federal fund could be 'crazy,' mayor says, but just might work

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

Mayor Naheed Nenshi wants Calgary to throw up a "Hail Mary pass" to the federal government as the city looks to finance a $133-million compost facility.

"It may be far too late, but I thought it was worth asking the question," Nenshi said Tuesday after a city committee pushed forward a larger plan for managing organic waste and concentrated sewage.

Recent changes to the P3 Canada infrastructure fund may make Calgary's project eligible for money that city staff previously believed was impossible, the mayor noted.

Nenshi also added nuance to concerns he expressed last week over the project's price tag. He maintained it would be foolish to implement an organic-waste collection system just for the sake of moving towards the city's target of diverting 80 per cent of city waste away from landfills within seven years.

The mayor described the so-called "80/20 by 2020" goal as "arbitrary and kind of uninteresting and probably only chosen because it rhymes."

Other points raised by city staff are more compelling, Nenshi said, including the fact that the proposed compost facility could also be used to decompose concentrated sewage or "biosolids."

That would be 15 to 20 per cent cheaper than building a separate sewage facility, said utilities general manager Rob Pritchard. And while the city has 30 years of landfill capacity left, Pritchard said "capacity is finite" and finding new landfill space is a pricey and challenging task.

Calgarians participating in the city's pilot compost-collection project have reported a "striking" reduction in the amount of material that ends up in their black bins each week, said Dave Griffiths, director of waste and recycling services.

Environmental liability

Organic materials not only take up space in landfills, they produce methane when they decompose. That creates both an environmental and economic liability, city staff noted, as methane is a powerful greenhouse gas. "We constantly have to manage solid waste and waste water against an ever-changing environmental regulation," Ald. Gord Lowe said.

Call of the wild: Campsites filling up for long weekend

Unofficial start of summer. Officials warn against open flames in several areas of Alberta

katie.turner@metronews.ca

Campgrounds throughout the province are booking up quickly, officials say, despite possible fire bans.

Susan Johnson, spokesperson for Alberta Tourism, Parks and Recreation, said Albertans have made nearly 41,500 campsite reservations for roughly the next two months, with most of those for the coming long weekend.

"Things are quite booked on the reservation system for the campgrounds surrounding the urban areas, and also in K-Country (Kananaskis Country), but we don't want people to lose hope," she said. "We've got over 170 campgrounds that offer first-come, first-serve."

For camper Crystal DeCnodder, she and her party of 25 planned well in advance, reserving spots weeks ago at Kinbrook Island Provincial Park.

DeCnodder said even with the possible fire ban, she's confident they'll enjoy the weekend, as long as the weather stays warm.

"We're just going to roll with (a fire ban), if that's the case," she said, adding she's used to adapting on the fly when it comes to camping. "I can't tell you how many times I've gone camping on May long and woken up to snow."

Jacalyn Ambler with Sustainable Resource Development recommends that campers check the status of fire bans online before hitting the road.

"We do have a lot of fire bans going on, and that probably won't change a lot before the weekend," she said.

For fire-ban updates, go to albertafirebans.ca.

Booze bans in effect

- There are liquor bans at nine provincial campgrounds over the long weekend: Aspen Beach, Cypress Hills, Dillberry Lake, Garner Lake, Jarvis Bay, Miquelon Lake, Pigeon Lake, Wabamun Lake and Whitney Lakes.
- Additional information about provincial campgrounds can be found at albertaparks.ca.

Great idea, when do we start? Coming soon to city hall: A jargon jar?

If swear jars work to break foul-mouthed people of their habits, why not a "jargon jar" for city officials addicted to speaking in bureaucratic mumbo-jumbo?

"It could identify when we've gone off the wagon," Ald. Druh Farrell said Tuesday at a committee meeting during which aldermen approved a "plain language" policy for city communications.

It may sound simple, but speaking in easy-to-understand terms can in fact be difficult for specialized city employees working in technical roles, said Rob Ferguson, acting manager of corporate marketing and communications.

Ferguson said a "plain-language expert" hired by the city analyzed its staff and determined "there was no widespread understanding in the city of exactly what plain language is."

The committee approved the plain-language policy nearly unanimously, with just Ald. Diane Colley-Urquhart opposed.

She said many city reports need to be technical in nature and while they are public documents, the "intended audience" is members of council, not necessarily the public.

Annoyed by bureaucratese and overly technical language, Ald. Druh Farrell says city officials could insert a designated amount of currency into a glass receptacle — or jargon jar — as a penalty designed to break them of the habit of speaking gobbledegook. METRO FILE

Ferguson said the policy alone won't change habits, and the city will need to undertake education and training, too.

Farrell suggested the jargon jar as one way to enforce the new guidelines in a playful way. ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

Spruce Grove. Wal-Mart sorry for nixing breastfeeding photograph

Wal-Mart says it made a mistake when its photo-lab staff at an Alberta store refused to print a photo of a mom nursing her son.

Kayla Andre's husband wanted to have a professional image of his wife breastfeeding their baby printed and framed as a Mother's Day present.

But Andre says her husband was denied the print because staff said it violated a policy against nudity.

Alex Roberton, a Wal-Mart spokesman, said employees were wrong not to print the photo.

He says the company has sent all Canadian stores an addendum to its photo policy, clarifying what constitutes an inappropriate photo and what doesn't.

Andre said breastfeeding is a natural and normal part of being a mother.

"It's beautiful," Andre said.

RCMP look to ID remains found east of Calgary

Chestermere. Autopsy expected to reveal cause, time of death

katie.turner@metronews.ca

Investigators are working to determine the identity of skeletal remains found on a rural property east of Calgary.

Strathmore RCMP were alerted to the discovery on Monday night by a property owner who was cleaning up a section of land outside Chestermere.

"Step 1 is to identify this person as quickly as we can and gather the evidence that's here, that we have, and move forward with our investigation," Sgt. Patricia Neely said.

An autopsy scheduled for Wednesday morning in Calgary will help identify the body, cause of death and a timeline, Neely said.

"The medical examiner will be able to give us an approximation of how long the bones have been there, and until we have that we're somewhat hampered in our investigation," she said, adding they don't appear to be recent.

The missing-persons unit, RCMP serious-crimes unit and the forensic-identification unit are assisting in the investigation.

Neely said an extensive search of the area is scheduled for Wednesday as well, as investigators seek to collect all possible evidence and possibly more bones.

"In general, with skeletal remains, they tend to be spread because of animals."

Evacuations. Residents threatened by fire could soon be home: Officials

Emergency officials in west-central Alberta are making plans to get some residents back into homes that have been threatened by wildfires.

Ron Leaf with Clearwater County says staff are working on criteria that may soon allow people to return to Nordegg, about 200 kilometres southwest of Edmonton.

An evacuation order was issued on Sunday for about 100 Nordegg residents and 150 people living in and around the hamlet of Lodgepole.

The province says the two fires remain out of control but have grown little since Monday.

No homes have been damaged, but a Quonset and some sheds were destroyed on a property near Lodgepole, about 100 kilometres southwest of Edmonton.

About 200 firefighters continue to battle the flames with heavy equipment, air tankers and helicopters.

Weather has been favourable over the past couple of days, with temperatures and wind dropping, and humidity rising. Winds across the province had whipped to as high as 100 kilometres per hour last weekend when the evacuation was enforced. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Luminous Crossing

Correction

In the Tuesday, May 14, edition of Metro, we erroneously reported in a story titled "Get a sneak peek at public art" that an art installation called Luminous Crossing would be installed along the West LRT CTrain line this summer.

The Luminous Crossing project will in fact be installed at both the City Hall LRT station and the Downtown West Kerby station. We regret the error.

Palliative-care cuts

AHS, union differ on layoffs

Twenty-four palliative-care nurses were laid off on Monday, a reduction that amounts to a loss of 6.8 full-time-equivalent positions, local union president Jacki Capper said. Alberta Health Services insisted patients using the service "will not notice any change in response or care levels." But Capper disagreed: "There will be less accessibility for the clients, because 6.8 full-time nurses weren't sitting around with nothing to do."

Editor charged over bribes paid to press officer

Britain's prosecutors say that a politics and government editor with The Sun tabloid has been charged over a conspiracy to pay thousands of pounds worth of bribes to a press officer working in the British government's tax department.

Prosecutors say The Sun paid bribes to press officer Jonathan Hall in return for information about unannounced spending plans, deficit reduction work and policy decisions. Hall was also charged.

Clodagh Hartley, 38, was arrested last year as part of a sprawling bribery probe linked to Britain's phone hacking scandal. The investigation has already ensnared some of The Sun's most senior staffers. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'Counterintuitive'

Helmet laws don't necessarily prevent injuries: Study

Bike helmets may prevent head injuries, but a newly published study has found there's no evidence that mandatory helmet laws do the same thing.

"It is a bit counterintuitive that we don't see an effect of helmet laws on head injuries," said University of Toronto researcher Jessica Dennis, whose work was published Tuesday in the journal of the British Medical Association.

"But there's so many other things going on at the same time a helmet law is passed that it's really hard to say that helmet law was the reason head injuries decrease."

She couldn't find any statistical link between helmet laws and reduced hospital admissions. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prince Harry tours storm-damaged N.J. shore

Superstorm Sandy aftermath. Gov. Christie plays tour guide, and game competitor

Britain's Prince Harry toured two New Jersey shore communities devastated six months ago by Superstorm Sandy, viewing destroyed homes, walking on a rebuilt boardwalk and shaking hands with emergency personnel and construction workers who have been racing to get the resort towns ready for the summer.

In Seaside Heights, where the MTV reality show Jersey Shore was taped, Harry and his tour guide, Gov. Chris Christie, also took part in a game of chance along the boardwalk, throwing perforated plastic balls into holes for prizes, which they gave to children.

The two came within sight of a roller coaster that the storm sent plunging into the Atlantic, which became a defining image of the storm that struck in late October. A crane was in place to begin demolition of the amusement ride.

"He is so cute. He came in with that white shirt and red hair, and he just exceeded all my expectations," said Brianna Marchal, 19, of Manahawkin, during his second stop.

The prince said he was impressed to see "everyone getting together and making things right."

Christie showed Harry a spot where the Atlantic Ocean had cut Mantoloking in half, taking out a bridge and houses.

Every one of the wealthy town's 521 homes was damaged or destroyed. In total, New Jersey sustained about $37 billion in damages.

From Seaside Heights, the prince was headed to New York City to promote British trade and tourism and a community baseball program. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fairy-tale fantasies

Test drive ended in killing: Cops

Missing Ontario man found dead. Murder to be added to charges as more suspects sought

Police probe the death of Tim Bosma, inset with his wife, Sharlene, at a rural southern Ontario property. ANDREW FRANCIS WALLACE/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE, INSET: FACEBOOK

A 32-year-old father from Hamilton, Ont., who took two men for a test drive last week in a truck he posted for sale was killed that night, police allege, though it's a mystery why.

Tim Bosma's body — "burned beyond recognition" — was found in the Waterloo Region, about 50 kilometres from his home, police said on Tuesday.

A Toronto man is under arrest and was set to be charged on Wednesday with first-degree murder, Hamilton police Det. Sgt. Matt Kavanagh said. Investigators were looking for at least two other suspects.

Dellen Millard, 27, was arrested on Friday and is already charged with forcible confinement and theft over $5,000. His lawyer has said he will dispute the charges.

Police were searching two properties Tuesday in the Waterloo area that are owned by Millard, including an airport hangar and a farm. Officers combed the grounds of the farm on foot and on horseback.

Bosma, described as a church-going family man not previously known to police, vanished on May 6 after leaving his home in his pickup truck with two men. The second man police were seeking was described as white and in his early-to-mid-20s.

Police said they were also looking for at least one more person, as video evidence shows another vehicle following Bosma's pickup truck when he left on the test drive, Kavanagh said. Police weren't able to make out the model from the footage, only that it is an "SUV-type vehicle."

A Toronto man earlier took the same two suspects for a test drive of his own truck, also put up for sale online, police have said.

Police found Bosma's truck on Sunday parked in the driveway of Millard's mother's home in Kleinburg, north of Toronto. She has "absolutely no" involvement with the case, police said.

Search warrants were being executed on three vehicles, Kavanagh said. Auto squad investigators were also set to examine vehicles in the airport hangar, he said.

Tuesday's unknowns

No official motive had been offered for Bosma's death.

- Police said there was "no connection whatsoever" between Bosma and the suspects before May 6.
- Police didn't yet know where Bosma was killed or when his body was burned, only that his remains were found in the Waterloo Region.
- The coroner's office had just been brought into the investigation and had not established the cause of death.

Mayor defends use of wartime prostitution

Second World War.
Says sex trade in Japan was necessary to 'maintain discipline'

An outspoken nationalist mayor said the Japanese military's forced prostitution of Asian women before and during the Second World War was necessary to provide rest for soldiers who risked their lives in battle.

The comments made Monday are already raising ire in neighbouring countries that bore the brunt of Japan's wartime aggression and have long complained that Japan has failed to fully atone for wartime atrocities.

Osaka Mayor Toru Hashimoto
KYODO NEWS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toru Hashimoto, the young, brash mayor of Osaka who is co-leader of an emerging conservative political party, also said that U.S. troops currently based in southern Japan should patronize the local sex industry more to help reduce rapes and other assaults.

Hashimoto told reporters on Monday that there wasn't clear evidence that the Japanese military had coerced women to become what are euphemistically called "comfort women" before and during the Second World War.

"To maintain discipline in the military, it must have been necessary at that time," Hashimoto said. "For soldiers who risked their lives in circumstances where bullets are flying around like rain and wind, if you want them to get some rest, a comfort women system was necessary. That's clear to anyone."

Former Pakistani PM re-elected, polls show

The vote count from last weekend's nationwide elections in Pakistan on Tuesday indicates a big win for former prime minister Nawaz Sharif's party.

Figures released by the country's election commission, based on 254 of the 269 races where the counting has been completed, show Sharif's party will likely get a majority in the national assembly, setting him up to be prime minister for the third time.

As the new-old prime minister, the 63-year-old Sharif, a devout Muslim and a populist, is expected to supplant President Asif Ali Zardari as the international face of a nuclear power whose increasing instability and Islamic militant havens are a global concern, especially at a time when the West is looking to end the war in neighbouring Afghanistan.

Hadfield's a rising star back on Earth

A Canadian Odyssey. What's next for our national singing spaceman? Marc Garneau says the sky's the limit

What's next for Chris Hadfield, the Canadian supernova who made space sexy again?

Hadfield landed safely back on Earth Monday after five months at the International Space Station, tweeting, playing his guitar and explaining the mysteries of space by video.

Marc Garneau who, in 2000, was Canada's first astronaut to visit the space station, has some ideas. He says he wouldn't be surprised to see Hadfield follow his path into politics. Some have even suggested to him that Hadfield could become prime minister tomorrow if he wanted.

Rocket Man

"He has superstar status. I think he has the world by the tail."

Marc Garneau on the popularity and future potential of Chris Hadfield

"He's certainly a very popular figure," Garneau told Torstar News Service. "I've had numerous people say this to me. He has superstar status. I think he has the world by the tail."

It is more likely that Hadfield will first be courted by a number of organizations with requests for personal appearances, speaking engagements and even book offers.

The Calgary Stampede announced last week that Hadfield will be the 2013 Stampede Parade Marshal.

Garneau expects that Parliament will fete Hadfield at some point this year.

And he doesn't expect Hadfield's star to dim any time soon.

Senate. Brazeau says he'll fight order to pay back $35,000 claim

Patrick Brazeau insists he broke no rules when he claimed a generous Senate housing allowance and he's exploring all options to overturn an order to pay the money back.

But the government's Senate leader, Marjory LeBreton, warned Tuesday that the money will be "seized" if it's not immediately reimbursed.

Brazeau, a one-time Conservative senator who now sits as an independent, argued Tuesday that last week's order to reimburse the Senate flies in the face of an independent audit, which concluded that the rules regarding the housing allowance are unclear.

Because of that lack of clarity, Deloitte auditors were unable to say categorically whether Brazeau, Conservative Sen. Mike Duffy or Liberal Mac Harb had violated the rules.

Nevertheless, the Senate's internal economy committee last week ordered Brazeau and Harb to repay their allowances, arguing that the rules are "amply clear" and "unambiguous."

The committee made no reference to clear rules when it came to Duffy, however. Duffy voluntarily repaid more than $90,000 in allowance and related living expense claims in March.

Both LeBreton and Prime Minister Stephen Harper have echoed Duffy's claim that the rules are confusing, citing the Deloitte finding.

Sen. Patrick Brazeau
ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brazeau cited the same Deloitte finding to argue that there's no reason why he should repay his housing allowance.

"The Deloitte report in no way finds anything untoward regarding the claims and documents filed by Sen. Brazeau," said a written statement released Tuesday by Brazeau's office.

"As a result, Sen. Brazeau will be seeking greater clarification and will explore all options to have this (repayment) determination overturned by applying the current policies, rules and regulations pertaining to this matter, including calling a public meeting of the Senate committee on internal economy to explain their decision." Psychiatrist never met Ashley Smith

Graphic content. Roy tells teen inmate's inquest she prescribed tranquilizers by phone

Prescribing medication for an agitated inmate by phone was a perfectly normal practice that relied heavily on the prison nurse to convey accurate information, a psychiatrist testified Tuesday.

Dr. Michelle Roy also told the Ashley Smith inquest that she expected the injected tranquilizers she prescribed for Smith to be offered to, not forced on, the disturbed teen.

Roy testified about a particularly harrowing day in July 2007, when the prison nurse at Joliette Institution for Women in Montreal called to describe "a very problematic situation."

"She had objects in her vagina. She was bleeding. There was a possibility of electrocution," Roy testified.

Roy advised the nurse to put Smith in four-point restraints, prescribed a powerful tranquilizer, and recommended a transfer to the general hospital for an internal exam.

Roy said no one ever informed her in subsequent calls that Smith had been injected over her objections. The drugs did not seem to be effective in calming her down anyway.

Roy also told the inquest that the emergency room doctor at the nearby hospital said he would refuse to do an internal examination without consent, so Smith was not transferred.

Roy said she never met Smith, who was moved to Joliette in July 2007 and committed suicide in October of that year while under suicide watch. All she received was a small medical file that contained "very little information."

She also believed Smith would only be there for a few days.

Assisted suicide. Court asks Swiss to clarify law

An elderly Swiss woman who would rather end her life now than decline further in health found sympathy Tuesday from the European Court of Human Rights, which called on the Swiss to clarify their laws on so-called passive assisted suicide.

The Strasbourg, France-based court said Switzerland must specify whether its laws are meant to include people not suffering from terminal illnesses and, if so, spell out the conditions under which they can end their lives.

Alda Gross, a woman in her early 80s who lives outside Zurich, appealed to the court after she couldn't find a doctor to prescribe her a lethal dose of drugs and couldn't force Swiss authorities to order a doctor to grant her wish.

While she doesn't suffer from any clinical illness, the court said, Gross argued that she shouldn't have to keep suffering from the decline of her physical and mental facilities.

BlackBerry gambles on BBM expansion

Orlando, Fla. Company makes its messaging service available on iOS, Android devices

BlackBerry CEO Thorsten Heins speaks at Tuesday's BlackBerry Live conference in Orlando, Fla. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BlackBerry came out swinging on Tuesday with a slate of announcements that included an expansion of its popular BlackBerry Messenger service to its competitors' devices and a new smartphone aimed at emerging markets.

Chief executive Thorsten Heins said the time was right for BBM, a key feature of BlackBerry smartphones, to be available on iPhones, iPads and Google Android devices as he kicked off the company's three-day BlackBerry Live conference.

"BBM actually was a key element of (why) people were going to BlackBerry," he said after the unveiling of the smartphone maker's latest plans.

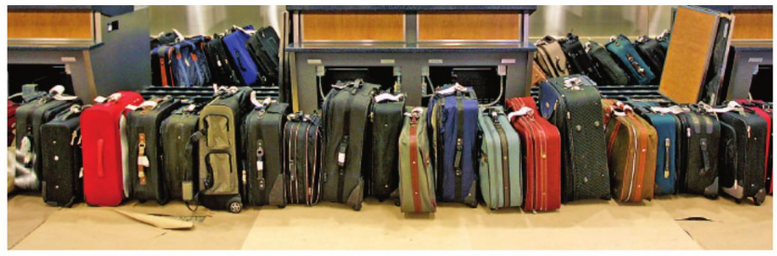
"We feel this platform and its product are standing on its own legs. That is the time to release BBM to another level and really let BBM flourish on its own."

The move is a gamble for the company, which has many loyal users who have stuck with their BlackBerry devices just to keep access to BBM. But the messaging service has run into competition from other similar options like WhatsApp and Waterloo, Ont.-based Kik Messenger, both which are available on BlackBerry and other phones.

BBM offers a more seamless and secure experience that includes video chat, an option that many of its competitors don't offer yet. The iPhone and Android version of the application, which will be available for free, will start with text messaging and then roll out other features including video and channels, Heins said.

BlackBerry has been on a roll in recent months, launching its first new smartphone products in several years with the BlackBerry 10 slate of both touchscreen and physical keyboard models.

The BlackBerry Q5, which was announced Tuesday, will sport a physical keyboard and a 3.1-inch screen. It will be available in several colours including red, black, white and pink in selected markets in Europe, the Middle East, Africa, Asia and Latin America starting in July. The phone isn't expected to be released in North America for now. THE CANADIAN PRESS



U.S. airlines bag $6B in passenger fees

For an airline passenger, this lineup of checked suitcases at a terminal in Atlanta's airport may conjure up nightmares of baggage collection gone wrong. For an airline executive, it may inspire dreams of dancing greenbacks. U.S. airlines raked in more than $6 billion US in baggage and reservation change fees from passengers last year, the highest amount since the fees became common five years ago. Those fees — along with extra charges for boarding early or picking prime seats — have helped return the industry to profitability. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Loblaw to join Bangladesh factory safety pact

Loblaw Companies Ltd. said Tuesday it will sign a pact to improve fire and building safety in Bangladesh following the collapse of a building that killed more than 1,100 garment workers.

The company had items for its Joe Fresh clothing label made in the building.

"This decision reflects the company's pledge to stay in Bangladesh and underscores its firm belief that active collaboration by retail and manufacturing industries, government and non-governmental organization, is critical to driving effective and lasting change in Bangladesh," the company said in a statement.

TOO MUCH DINERO FOR GELATO

JUST SAYIN'

Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

Beware the tourist trap. It can snag your wallet and never let it go.

In the tourist trap, it's always high season. Take the story of the four British tourists who stopped for an ice cream near Rome's Spanish Steps recently and paid the equivalent of $84 Canadian.

This should be the craziest thing you've ever heard, except it isn't.

I once paid 25 euros for a cup of coffee on the Champs-Élysées, le grand boulevard de Paris, and certainly le plus cher boulevard de Paris. That's about 33 bucks. It was a café au lait, after all. The waiter was outraged that I refused to leave a tip.

"Work it out," I said, "with the extortionist who owns this place," and stalked off.

I'm sure each of us has a horror story to share. As there are tourist traps right here in our own backyard, you don't have to go very far to get fleeced.

Every tourist trap has one thing in common. It's a must-see. You know what you're getting into, but who can resist Venice or Harrods or the pyramids along the Nile or any of the other legendary places that are part of the iconography of our lives?

"I went to Paris and didn't bother with the Champs-Élysées." I don't think so. Just try not to spend any money, which is almost impossible. Breathing the air costs beaucoup de euros.

Meanwhile, back at the world's most expensive ice cream parlour, the proprietors are defending the price, which comes to about $21 a dish. "That's about half a kilo of gelato," a manager who refused to be identified told an inquiring U.K. reporter. Well, all right then, what's the fuss?

Thankfully, the mayor of Rome was embarrassed and offered a personal tour of his city to the tourists, should they ever recover from the shock to their fiscal systems. You can just imagine: "Here's where I buy MY gelato…"

I guess you could argue that this, in the ancient language of Rome, is a case of caveat emptor. Nobody made those people buy the ice cream, and, in fact, the prices were posted — in mouse type. But tourism is hard work, and requires refreshment. And there's something nasty about squeezing the euros out of people who travelled halfway across the world just to visit.

While the mayor of Rome has the good sense to be embarrassed on his city's behalf, so far, I have yet to hear back from the mayor of Paris on the price of a cup of coffee.

Nor, I should add, has he apologized for the cost of the crepe smeared with a dollop of Nutella purchased atop the Eiffel Tower. You think he'd learn.

Everyone can be a star now

Interview. Robert Kyncl, YouTube's global head of content, reveals the tools needed to propel you to celebrity status

ELISABETH BRAW
scene@metronews.ca

Even though he holds the keys to the future of entertainment, Robert Kyncl is a remarkably easygoing man. As global head of content at YouTube, Kyncl has successfully steered the company from being a depository for cat videos to a position as a media powerhouse.

What will entertainment's future look like? Metro met Kyncl, a former Czech top athlete with a ready laugh, for an exclusive interview at YouTube's Los Angeles office.

Is TV as a device dead?
No, but there are many other devices, what I call "work machines" — computers, phones, tablets, which are Wi-Fi-enabled and transmit video. Because of this, suddenly we've uncovered a lot of other consumption patterns and demand from consumers for content that doesn't fit the same format as the TV set.

Robert Kyncl, the head of content at YouTube, told Metro how the site had changed the ways of the modern world. HANDOUT

Those changing habits, with viewers spending more time on homemade content, are also blurring the lines between consumer and producer. What does that mean for entertainment's future?
It just means that there are many more creators than in the past. In the past, the entire television industry was based on a closed system: a telecommunications company delivering the content to you into a device that was sitting in your living room. Today it's an open system, where anyone can deliver content to a device, and of course you can still view it on your TV set as well.

How will all of this change our daily lives?
Look at mobile media consumption. For us at YouTube, in the past two years it has gone from six per cent of all of our consumption to 30 per cent. In some countries, like South Korea and Saudi Arabia, it's more than 50 per cent. Mobile devices are becoming the first screen instead of the second screen.

Is that good or bad?
I think it's a good thing. People used to sit around the TV and more or less be quiet. Today people are sharing — that means commenting and having conversations. People start these conversations in text form, but they'll very quickly move over to a live form. Of course, everything has to be in moderation. If everything you do all day is watch YouTube on your smartphone it's not very good.

How much YouTube do you watch everyday?
About half an hour. A couple of years ago it was less than five minutes a day.

What's the key ingredient to success in new media?
On the Internet, you can go directly to the consumer, but you have to do the other parts yourself: analyzing trends and your consumers and quantifying them.

This means that you have to be good in math. Your ability to, for example, expand your YouTube channel will rely on your ability to spot and measure trends with data. Creativity and analytical skills are a phenomenal mix.

So teenagers should brush up on their math?
That's what I tell my daughters every day. And science. And learn how to code!

What will be YouTube's hit shows of the future?
It's difficult to predict. There are shows on YouTube today that are getting audiences larger than shows on TV. But the mainstream audience doesn't know about it, which is why most people don't know about it. We just haven't told the world about it. But we're working on it.

This is Metro's final instalment in the series looking at the future of television.

HOW TO BECOME A YOUTUBE STAR

Vision
Have a vision and be passionate about it.

Flexibility
Be flexible and willing to fail. Fail often. On YouTube it doesn't even cost you anything to fail.

Expand
Expand your YouTube audience by connecting with them on other social media.

Feedback
Ask your audience for feedback. Be dependable but not predictable.

Fun
Remember that it's not just about money.

What's going to be hot at Cannes this year?

Top 5. A look at what's getting a buzz this season at possibly the most prestigious stop in the film festival calendar

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Hollywood is making its annual pilgrimage to the French Riviera for the Cannes International Film Festival. Here are our picks for the films to watch out for debuting at Cannes this month.

The Bling Ring
This may turn out to be the guiltiest pleasure of the year, but we can't contain our excitement over it. Sofia Coppola takes on the true-life tale of the fame-hungry young socialites who used Twitter and Facebook to time break-ins at the homes of celebrities and make off with their loot, becoming famous themselves in the process, even if it was for all the wrong reasons. The film's gang is led by Harry Potter star Emma Watson — completely unrecognizable from her Hogwarts days.

Inside Llewyn Davis
Festival favorites the Coen Brothers return with their hotly anticipated latest, set in the 1960s Greenwich Village folk scene. The film features John Goodman, Carey Mulligan, Justin Timberlake and Oscar Isaac as the titular, troubled troubadour. The soundtrack alone should be enough to impress.

Nebraska
Alexander Payne offers up a father-and-son road trip story shot in black and white, as Bruce Dern and Will Forte strike out in search of lottery winnings. While Payne has charmed before with Sideways, Election and The Descendants, the casting of Saturday Night Live and 30 Rock alum Forte in a more dramatic role is what's really piquing curiosity here.

Emma Watson stars in The Bling Ring. HANDOUT

Only God Forgives
If this one isn't awesome, we're giving up hope in humanity. Nicholas Winding Refn re-teams with his Drive star and kindred spirit, Ryan Gosling, for a pulpy, violent revenge drama. As a bonus, Kristen Scott Thomas goes bad as Gosling's crime-lord mother. Bring it on.

Only Lovers Left Alive
This one may be a bit of a long shot, but it sounds simply too bizarre not to check out: Longtime indie film darling Jim Jarmusch takes on the vampire film genre with an impressive art-house cast led by Tom Hiddleston and Tilda Swinton as vampires in a centuries-long romance named Adam and Eve.

Star Trek Into Darkness. The logical choices behind creation of Mr. Spock

On television Mister Spock was the USS Enterprise's first officer — a half human, half Vulcan character prone to saying things like, "It seems logical, Captain," and applying the Vulcan nerve pinch sleeper hold.

The character, first brought to life by Leonard Nimoy in the original Star Trek series from 1966 to 1969, was named one of 50 greatest TV characters and has since appeared in everything from cartoons to video games and SNL parodies to comic books, fan fiction and movies.

This weekend Zachary Quinto dons the pointy ears to play the Starfleet officer in Star Trek Into Darkness, the 12th film to boldly go where no man has gone before.

In advance of the film's release, here are a few things about Spock you never knew.

In the pitch for Star Trek, series creator Gene Roddenberry described the character as "probably half Martian; he has a slightly reddish complexion and semi-pointed ears."

The name of Spock's planet, Vulcan, was created because Roddenberry thought it was possible that man might land on Mars during the run of the show.

The part of Spock was originally offered to DeForest Kelley, who turned down the role in favour of playing Dr. Bones.

Twenty years later, he played Bones and Spock in Star Trek III: The Search for Spock. The role was also offered to Adam West before Nimoy signed on.

Justin Bieber

Thieves hit concert venue after Bieber show

Justin Bieber's tour is on hiatus until he hits San Diego next month, but the scandal-plagued international leg wouldn't be complete without one more hitch: After Bieber's last show in Johannesburg, the venue, FNB Stadium, was reportedly robbed, with thieves making off with more than $300,000 from Bieber's show and a Bon Jovi concert the previous night, according to Sky News. "The suspect had gained entry through the roof," a local police spokeswoman says. "They broke the tile ... of the bathroom between [Sunday] night after the concert and this morning." The stolen money had been secured in a safe prior to the theft.

Zoe Saldana

Saldana swings both ways

Zoe Saldana is keeping an open mind when it comes to a potential family. How open, exactly? She tells Allure magazine that she might "end up with a woman raising my children. That's how androgynous I am." That's rather progressive. But Saldana says — rather cryptically — that it's all about not taking things for granted. "If I have something good in front of me, it doesn't matter if it's a person of a pair of shoes," she says. "I'm not going to test something else. It's insecure and it's immature."

Angelina Jolie THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jolie reveals details on surgery to combat risk of breast cancer

Angelina Jolie has taken to the New York Times to reveal that she recently underwent a preventative double mastectomy to combat her genetic risk for breast cancer.

"I choose not to keep my story private because there are many women who do not know that they might be living under the shadow of cancer," she writes. "I can tell my children that they don't need to fear they will lose me to breast cancer. It is reassuring that they see nothing that makes them uncomfortable. They can see my small scars and that's it. Everything else is just Mommy, the same as she always was. And they know that I love them and will do anything to be with them as long as I can. On a personal note, I do not feel any less of a woman. I feel empowered that I made a strong choice that in no way diminishes my femininity."

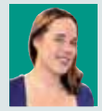
Vin Diesel: Facebook owes me



THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Vin Diesel has a bone to pick with Facebook.

The Fast & Furious 6 star is taking credit for making celebrity pages popular on the social network, as he was one of the first movie stars to interact with his followers.

"Facebook used to ask me to come up to their office to explain what the f— I was doing and why I had so many fans. What was unique was I never let anyone do a post. I never let anyone post for me in the last four years," he tells Entertainment Weekly. "Facebook really owes me billions of dollars, but whatever."

The secret? Diesel really interacts with his Facebook fans. And Diesel's fans (41,621,431 likes as of press time) return the favour. They are known for creating truly amazing Vin Diesel Facebook art, many with "supposed" inspirational quotes by the actor super-imposed over photos of him. He calls these super-fanatical Diesel fans "Vinangels, Vingypsies, and the various nomadic tribes of the Underverse."

In other news, Vin Diesel is a total weirdo. I love it.

Mayday, mayday!

The first long weekend of the summer is upon us. If you weren't lucky enough to get the coveted cottage invite, fear not — there's plenty to do around Canada's biggest cities. Here's just a sampling of events and attractions to get you out and about this weekend.

METRO NEWS

Calgary

Get ready for a wild ride

Western Canada's largest outdoor amusement park opens its gates this weekend. With more than 30 rides on more than 90 acres of land, there's sure to be an attraction for everyone. You'll want to be the first to check out their new attraction: Cinemagic 3D. For more information visit calawaypark.com

Saskatoon

Take in some more hockey

Are you still craving more hockey even though the NHL playoffs are in full swing? Why not check out a game at the 2013 Mastercard Memorial Cup. The CHL round robin tournament begins May 17 and features the champion of the OHL, the WHL, the QMJHL and the host team. For tickets visit mastercard memorialcup.ca

Halifax

Haligonians head to market

Get a taste of the country at Hubbards Farmers' Market. Spend Saturday morning inspecting the wares of 40 local vendors who sell fresh seasonal produce, wine, coffee and fresh flowers. Local artisans and live music is also on hand. hubbardsbarn.org

Vancouver

Grind it out on the west coast

If you've never attempted the Grouse Grind, this is your weekend. Lace up your hiking boots, grab a friend and tackle the 2.9 kilometre trail up the face of Grouse Mountain. Once at the top, enjoy the view, have some lunch and compare your time — it takes a novice hiker about two hours to complete the hike. grousemountain.com

Winnipeg

Hands up, baby, hands up...

Prairie Dog Central Railway hosts a steam locomotive ride complete with a staged robbery. Keep an eye out for the train robbers on horseback and be prepared to take part in an old-fashioned "hands-up" robbery during the ride to Grosse Isle. Train departs at 11 a.m. on Sunday. For tickets and more information, visit pdcrailway.com

Toronto

Meet the pandas

After their long journey from China and their meeting with Prime Minister Stephen Harper, the Giant Pandas Er Shun and Da Mao are ready to greet visitors at the Toronto Zoo. The exhibit opens May 18. But don't worry if you can't make opening day — they'll be in Toronto for the next 10 years. torontozoo.com

Souvenirs

Bring back more than Montezuma's revenge

ON THE MOVE
Loren Christie
life@metronews.ca

Make souvenir shopping part of the cultural experience of your trip. ISTOCK

Last year, after spending three days scoping out the spices, carpets and funky glass-tiled lanterns in Istanbul's famous Grand Bazaar, I was poised to shop up a storm. The plan was to return with wallet in hand after a side trip to Cappadocia and make my purchases while transiting back through the city en route to Greece. Unfortunately some bad meat got in the way and I missed out on some quality souvenir shopping. In addition to avoiding uncooked street kabobs, here are some other precautions to take so you don't come down with your own case of buyer's remorse.

Prepare a budget before you leave on your trip and stick to it. Have something specific in mind. Do you need a new rug? Is there a bare wall in your house in need of some art? Do the kids expect a T-shirt? Make a list of who you are buying for. Think about collections; it focuses you. I always buy a decoration for the Christmas tree.

If you are choosing a gift for a loved one do not assume that the plate or jug emblazoned with Mexico on it is going to mean much to them. When buying for someone else's enjoyment I recommend edible gifts, like coffee beans, chocolate or alcohol.

Make shopping part of the cultural experience; barter with sellers at a local market, chat with an antique dealer or browse the local authors at a bookstore.

Never buy on day one. When you arrive at a destination, take time to window shop. On the other hand if you find something truly unique that you really adore, grab it. It might not be there in the morning. Snap photos of your potential purchases to allow for some comparisons.

Upon returning home declare everything at customs. Otherwise you risk getting fined, having your treasures confiscated or even facing persecution. Make sure to check out cbsa-asfc.gc.ca for a full list of the items you can bring back into Canada and your personal exemption limits. Some restrictions on things such as dried fruit, wood carvings and even sand, are surprising.

Life in The Office: The real Scranton

Cashing in. The Pennsylvania town has been banking on their notoriety for years

NBC's long-running The Office was a faux documentary about cubicle life. The Scranton branch of Dunder Mifflin Paper Co. didn't exist.

Try telling that to merchants, tourism officials and regular folks here in the real-world city of 76,000, for whom the Emmy-winning comedy — which ends its nine-season run this week — had a tangible and lasting impact.

Even though The Office was shot in California, it was set in Scranton, and every Office booze cruise on Lake Wallenpaupack, shopping excursion to the Steamtown mall and after-work party at Poor Richard's Pub meant real cash in real registers as the show's intensely loyal fans flocked to northeastern Pennsylvania to see where their favourite characters lived, worked and played.

"If people weren't talking about Scranton before this show aired," said Tracy Barone, executive director of the Lackawanna County Convention and Visitors Bureau, "they were talking about it afterward."

Plenty of TV series have been set in real places, but The Office was different. Residents and businesses in Scranton donated hundreds of props over the years, and the show gave shout-outs and notoriety to dozens of local landmarks, from restaurants to radio stations.

Fans of the cult comedy from around North America still come to Cooper's Seafood House — a 65-year-old family-run restaurant that boasts a lighthouse and full-size pirate ship — to see where clueless boss Michael Scott and his put-upon Office underlings got their grub.

Rainn Wilson in Scranton. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"They'll say, can you tell us where they sat and ate, what they ate, what kind of beer they drank, all kinds of questions," said waitress Laura Langan, who is always ready with the answers.

This summer, take on Muskoka's fairways

Golf, Group of Seven style. Rocks, pines and some challenging courses are waiting to be tackled in Toronto's cottage country

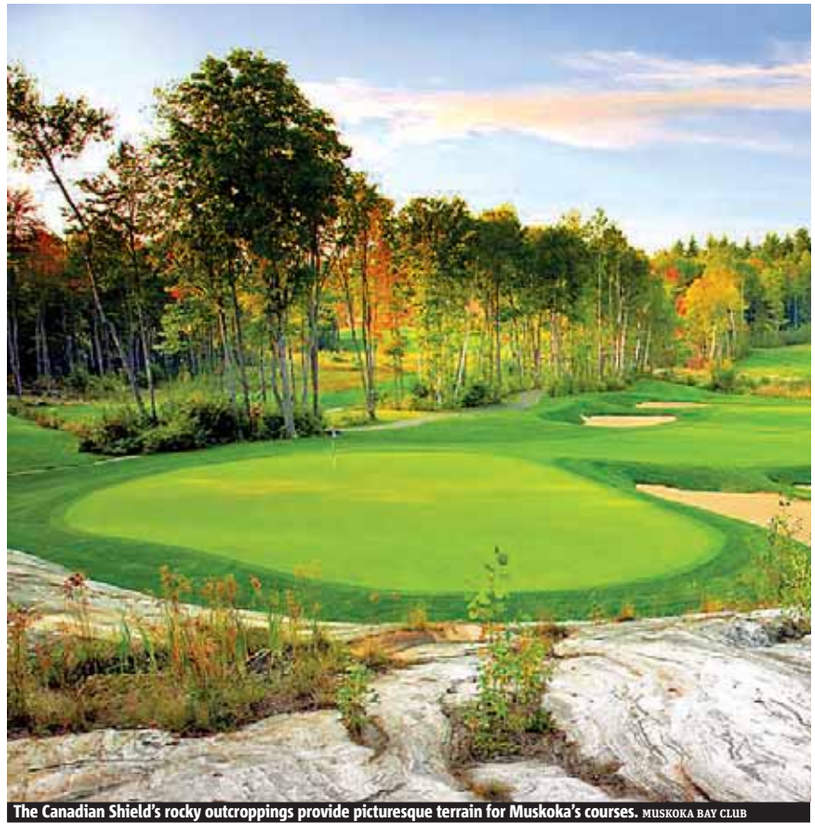
canadiangolftraveller.com

Taboo resort's spokesman is Mike Weir. TABOO RESORT



The Canadian Shield's rocky outcroppings provide picturesque terrain for Muskoka's courses. MUSKOKA BAY CLUB

Not since Stanley Thompson's groundbreaking Rocky Mountain layouts opened in Jasper and Banff in the 1920s has another golf destination equalled Muskoka's impact on Canadian golf course design.

Just as Thompson established a template for mountain courses followed to this day, Tom McBroom, Doug Carrick and other top architects are using the granite outcroppings of the Canadian Shield to create a uniquely Muskokan design aesthetic that has propelled the Ontario tourist district to the forefront of Canadian golf.

In the span of a decade, the Lake Joseph Club (1997), Bigwin Island Golf Club (2002), The Rock Golf Course (2004) and Muskoka Bay Club (2007) were each named the country's best new course by Golf Digest, a record unmatched by any other Canadian golf destination.

Muskoka's rugged landscape has been drawing vacationers the roughly 200 kilometres north from Toronto ever since the district first opened to settlement in the mid-1800s. The love affair between Canada's largest city and Muskoka is similar to the bond that exists between New York and the Hamptons or Vancouver and Whistler. Muskoka is the city's essential summertime escape — a stress-reducing, rustic oasis with hundreds of resorts, approximately 600 lakes and more than 30 golf courses.

Though golf had been played throughout the district for decades, Muskoka didn't enter the high-end market until the 1990 opening of Deerhurst Highlands Golf Course at Deerhurst Resort in Huntsville. Typical of Muskoka's courses, the routing of this acclaimed McBroom-Robert Cupp co-design rambles through forest and wetlands, and features several immense walls of granite.

Thompson, the godfather of Canadian golf architecture, established his reputation in the even more rugged terrain of Jasper and Banff by clearing gaps through the forest to point golfers toward greens aligned with distant mountains, and by whimsically patterning his bunkers after the snow formations on their peaks.

Today, in similarly dramatic fashion, architects are using Muskoka's outcroppings of pink Canadian Shield granite to shape and accent golf holes. Like restored artworks, especially beautiful rock formations are cleaned with high-pressure hoses to make their colours more vivid.

"There's tremendous challenge in working with the rock," McBroom says. "The key is to make the holes fit naturally into the wild terrain, exposing the beauty of the rock without letting it get in the way."

Spearheading Muskoka's drive to become a premier golf destination is ClubLink, Canada's largest owner-operator of golf facilities, which operates two championship courses in the district and another a short drive away.

Clublink's first Muskoka course was the award-winning Lake Joseph Club, a McBroom design carved through the hills and valleys of a hardwood forest at Lake Joseph Club Resort. One of Muskoka's signature holes is Lake Joseph's par-three eighth, where golfers hit from a wildly elevated tee to a valley green dwarfed by a giant wall of striated granite.

McBroom exposed even more granite at Clublink's Rocky Crest Golf Club, in the nearby district of West Parry Sound, where rolling fairways twist through a thrilling mix of towering fir trees and marshes.

A clear signal of the coming of age of Muskoka's golf product was the 2001 launch of ClubLink's Mark O'Meara Course at Grandview in Huntsville. For the first time, an internationally famous golf personality was hired to design a Muskoka course.

O'Meara, the 1998 British Open and Masters champion, responded to the challenge by building a gorgeous 7,065 brute of a track that frequently forces golfers to hit shots over menacing rock faces.

In 2002, Taboo Resort in Gravenhurst raised the celebrity bar even higher by signing Mike Weir to be the official spokesman of the Ron Garl-designed Taboo Golf Club, a challenging layout offering a roller-coaster ride through wetlands and a forest of birch, pine and balsam.

O'Meara and Weir (whose promotional deal with Taboo has since expired) helped to sell golf in an image-conscious marketplace where the lavish summer homes of wealthy Torontonians and Hollywood celebrities, including Goldie Hawn and Martin Short, adorn the waterfronts of Lake Muskoka, Lake Joseph and Lake Rosseau, the three most coveted addresses.

Nick Faldo's firm, Faldo Design, has built courses around the world, but was hired to design The Rock Golf Club, in the village of Minett, as much for the cachet of his name as for his reputation as an architect.

Faldo, a three-time British Open and Masters champion, built a course featuring tightly carved fairways, bold bunkers and multi-tiered greens.

"We had to fight the rock in places," Faldo says of his first design project in Canada. "But more than anything it's the rock that gives Muskoka courses their 'wow' factor."

Another high-profile opening was Bigwin Island Golf Club, a Carrick design that won Golf Digest's top prize in 2002. Unlike most Muskoka courses, which have been carved from the wilderness, Carrick built his course on top of a long-abandoned 18-hole Stanley Thompson layout at the site of old Bigwin Inn, a once famous resort on the Lake of Bays near Huntsville.

Almost every hole at Bigwin (reached by motor launch from the mainland) offers glorious vistas of the Lake of Bays beyond the treeline. And in a nod to Bigwin's proud heritage, the waterfront pavilion that was once the resort's dining hall has been rebuilt to serve as today's clubhouse.

Carrick followed Bigwin with the Muskoka Bay Club, in the town of Gravenhurst, a stunningly beautiful layout that captured Golf Digest's top spot in 2007. The highlight here is the par-four ninth hole, where golfers must thread their approach shot through twin granite towers standing guard over the green like billion-year-old sentinels.

Though the recession slowed the building of new courses, 2011 saw the launch of Oak Bay Golf and Country Club, a Shawn Watters design in the town of Port Severn, near the shores of Georgian Bay. Absolutely unforgettable is Oak Bay's par-three, 170-yard 15th hole, played over a marsh to a green perched atop a massive granite outcropping.

Muskoka's impressive roster of marquee courses has placed the district in competition with Prince Edward Island, Cape Breton, Mont-Tremblant, the Alberta Rockies, the Okanagan Valley and Whistler for dominance in the Canadian golf tourism market.

That's apples and oranges — literally — in sour cream cake

for more, visit rosereisman.com or follow her on twitter @rosereisman

You can substitute the raisins for dried cranberries and apples for pears if desired

1. Topping: In bowl, combine brown sugar, pecans, flour, margarine and cinnamon.

2. Filling: In a bowl mix apples, raisins, sugar and cinnamon.

3. Cake: In food processor, beat together brown sugar, granulated sugar and oil. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Mix in orange zest and vanilla extract.

4. In a separate bowl, stir together flour, baking powder and baking soda. In another bowl, stir together orange juice and sour cream. Add flour mixture and sour cream mixture alternately to beaten sugar mixture, mixing just until blended. Spoon half of batter into prepared pan. Top with half of apple mixture. Spoon remaining batter into pan. Top with remaining apple mixture; sprinkle with topping.

5. Preheat oven to 350 F. Bake 45 to 50 minutes, in a 10-inch springform pan sprayed with vegetable spray, or until cake tester inserted in centre comes out clean. Cool on a wire rack.

Identify your beef before going to battle

What's your type?
Five strategies for solving your specific student conflict

SHAHEERAH KAYANI
TalentEgg.ca

If a tense situation is taking over your study sessions, it's time to plan out a pact. ISTOCK

In our day-to-day lives, we are all faced with various conflicts that we must deal with.

In the context of the school environment, you might have a falling out with someone in your class project group, or perhaps even with your teacher. Whatever the conflict may be, it must be resolved as soon as possible in a mature and effective manner so that the problem does not escalate.

Depending on the situation you are in, the other parties involved and what their needs and wants are, as well as where each party stands on the power spectrum and the urgency of the situation, there are a number of different handy conflict-resolution strategies that can be used to effectively mitigate and resolve the problem.

Read below to find out more about five common conflict resolution strategies that might be of use to you.

Competitive
This type of conflict-resolution strategy can be very useful if you are 100 per cent unyielding and unwilling to give in to the other party. But keep in mind that this strategy should only be used when you have a firm stand in the situation and you come from a position of power. Specifically, this strategy will be the most useful in times of emergency, where a decision regarding the most appropriate actions to be taken is required right away.

Collaborative
Collaborative conflict resolution comes in handy when you need to work together to meet the needs of all parties involved. In this type of conflict situation, a very high level of importance is placed on effective co-operation. Use this approach when you know you will be (or are likely to be) dealing with that party again.

Compromise
This type of conflict-resolution strategy should be used when you truly want to ensure that the solution will be satisfactory for all involved. In this scenario, each party involved must be willing to give in on some demands to come to the end solution.

Accommodate
This type of conflict-resolution strategy should be used when you are willing to meet the needs of others, but at your own cost. This strategy is not the overly-assertive type, but rather a more co-operative approach. Here, a very high level of importance is placed on achieving peace rather than winning.

The avoidance approach

This type of conflict-resolution strategy should be used when you simply want to avoid the conflict altogether.

- This is a good approach to use when you are just about at the end of your dealing with that party and will not have to deal with them again. Sometimes, the best thing to do is to simply keep your cool and avoid any problems altogether.

Use your body language and voice to demonstrate a cool demeanor. Be calm, and don't let it turn into a shouting match. ISTOCK

When someone showcases inappropriate behaviour, especially in a workplace setting, it can create a negative work atmosphere in which other co-workers feel uninterested to do their work and even customers don't want to deal with that particular business. Whether the need for the confrontation arises in a work or personal setting, here are handy tips on how you should go about confronting that certain someone:

Use your personal power
This is simply the influence that you have on your peers. While we all have positional power, personal power is something we develop through rapport. If you are to confront someone, it can make the process a lot easier if you have a good working relationship and mutual understanding with that person.

Be objective
Don't let your emotions get in the way — stay both morally and emotionally objective.

Stay focused on the issue at hand
Always remain focused on the initial issue, and confront tihe person's behaviour.

Consistency
Try to be consistent in your approach and in what you do and say.

Laugh it up
It can be a very good idea to employ humour. This shows you are human and that you can make light of the situation. It's also a good way of cutting through the emotional tension.

Cabrera helps Jays chase champs

Former Giants outfielder Melky Cabrera sparked Toronto's six-run first inning and starter R.A. Dickey struck out a season-high 10 batters as the Blue Jays defeated San Francisco 10-6 on Tuesday night.

Cabrera reached on an error to start the early rally and later drove in the sixth run of the frame as Toronto (16-24) sent 11 batters to the plate against Giants starter Barry Zito.

Ovi joining Russia after Caps ouster

Washington Capitals captain Alex Ovechkin will join Russia's team at the world hockey championships in Finland.

The news that he'll play for Russia came Tuesday, a day after Ovechkin's Capitals were eliminated in the first round of the NHL playoffs by the New York Rangers in Game 7 of their best-of-seven series.

After leading the league with 32 goals in the regular season, Ovechkin only scored once in the playoffs.

NHL playoffs. Pittsburgh manages just fine on power play against Ottawa

Game 1

Penguins	Senators

The Ottawa Senators know there is little margin for error if they want to upset the Pittsburgh Penguins.

If they don't slow down Pittsburgh's potent power play, they'll have a difficult time against Sidney Crosby and the rest of the Penguins.

Paul Martin and Chris Kunitz scored power-play goals and Pascal Dupuis added his sixth goal of the playoffs and the Penguins beat the Senators 4-1 in Game 1 of the Eastern Conference semifinals on Tuesday.

"We know it's a good start, but it's just like the rest of the playoffs, we know it's just the start," Pittsburgh forward Jarome Iginla said.

A promising one at that.

Evgeni Malkin extended his points streak to seven games with a goal and an assist for the Penguins while Tomas Vokoun stopped 35 shots to win his third straight game since replacing struggling starter Marc-Andre Fleury.

Colin Greening scored for the Senators. Craig Anderson made 26 saves but Ottawa had no answer for Pittsburgh's power play.

"Their power play is good," Anderson said. "We knew that going in and if we want to have a good chance to win a game we're going to have to shoot down their special teams. It's huge for them. If we're able to kill those off, it's a different game."

It wasn't in the opener.

The Senators had the NHL's best penalty kill during the regular season and turned aside 16 of 19 penalties against Montreal in the first round.

Yet they couldn't stop the Penguins from going 2-for-4 on the power play to improve to 9 of 24 with the man advantage in the playoffs.

Net gain. Canada's Smith making case for Olympics

Mike Smith has gone from a goaltender no NHL team wanted to a candidate for Canada's next Olympic team.

The 31-year-old from Kingston is currently clearing a hurdle to making it to the Sochi Games — a lack of international hockey experience.

Smith was Canada's starter in the key games of the preliminary round at the IIHF World Championship. The Phoenix Coyotes goalie posted a 33-save shutout against Sweden, who Canada will face again in Thursday's quarterfinal.

He also made 24 saves in a 2-1 win over the Czech Republic. In his world championship debut, Smith had 26 saves in regulation and six of eight in a 3-2 shootout loss to the Swiss.

"You dream to play for your country, whether it's in the world championships or the Olympics or whatever the tournament is," Smith said. "It's a great opportunity to showcase what I can do over here on the international stage and hopefully I can turn some heads." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pacers push Knicks to brink of elimination

NBA playoffs.

Now a win away from conference final, Indiana appears to be learning from past lapses

The Indiana Pacers finally figured it out.

When given the chance to take command of a playoff series, they can't give it back. On Tuesday night, they didn't.

George Hill scored 26 points and Paul George had 18 points, 14 rebounds and seven assists, leading the Pacers past the New York Knicks, 93-82 and to within one win of their first conference finals appearance since 2004.

"We wanted it," George said. "For us to come out with that edge, still, after being up 2-1 and being on our floor for Game 4, for us to be up and ready and have an edge to play, it just speaks to how focused we are right now."

It was a far cry from what Indiana experienced a week ago in New York.

Last week, the Knicks rallied from a Game 1 loss, using a 30-2 run to blow out Indiana at Madison Square Garden and even the series.

So the Pacers went into Tuesday night determined not to let it happen again, certainly not with former stars Reggie Miller and Rik Smits in the house watching their old team hand it to their old rivals. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top prospect Wiggins lands in Kansas

Canadian basketball prospect Andrew Wiggins told a small gathering of family and friends at his high school gym Tuesday that he will play at Kansas.

Then the Huntington Prep star signed his letter-of-intent and officially became a Jayhawk. No big speech. No bands, live TV coverage or props.

Just the way Wiggins wanted it.

And just like that, Lawrence, Kan., became more of a focal point for the upcoming college basketball season.

"I'm looking forward to getting there and just doing my thing," Wiggins said.

The six-foot-eight Vaughan, Ont., native chose Kansas over Kentucky, North Carolina and Florida State. Wiggins said there wasn't one particular selling point, taking into account each school's coaching staff, players and program. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Resilient Winterhawks get last laugh

WHL finals celebration.

Portland uses season's adversity to fuel redemptive victory versus Edmonton

Hit with unprecedented penalties by the Western Hockey League back in November, the Portland Winterhawks not only prevailed, they won the junior hockey league's championship.

"We could have used it as an excuse to wipe away the season," Dallas Stars prospect Taylor Peters said of the sanctions, which included the suspension of the team's head coach for the balance of the season. "But we used it as fuel."

The Winterhawks claimed the Ed Chynoweth Cup with a 5-1 Game 6 victory over the Edmonton Oil Kings on Sunday. Ty Rattie had a hat trick in the deciding win.

On Tuesday, thousands of fans came out as the city celebrated the title with a noontime rally. Many supporters sported T-shirts reading "Portland Strikes Back."

The championship — and the cheers — were sweet revenge for the Winterhawks, who in November got hit with stiff penalties by the league for player-benefit violations. The WHL took away several draft picks and fined the team $200,000, in addition to suspending Winterhawks coach and general manager Mike Johnston for the rest of this season.

What the Winterhawks took issue with was the severity of the penalties, including Johnston's banishment.

Johnston wasn't allowed contact with the team during the season, but he was granted permission from the league to meet the Winterhawks on Sunday night when they landed in Portland after winning the championship.

Keeping his seat warm

"Just having him around and able to enjoy this with the rest of us is important."

Assistant GM and assistant coach Travis Green on GM and head coach Mike Johnston.

The violations

The Winterhawks acknowledged some of the league's findings, which included:

- Over the last five years, seven families were provided flights two-to-four times per season based on financial need and their distance from Portland.
- Twice in the last five years the team paid for two players to each have a one-week summer training regimen.
- The Winterhawks provided a cellphone for their team captain for a period of three seasons.

2013 Volkswagen Golf GTI

Review. Competitors will struggle to outdo the solid, sporty Golf

MALCOLM GUNN
wheelbasemedia.com

The formula for producing the GTI is a simple one. Start with one standard-issue Volkswagen Golf two or four-door hatchback, drop in a spunky engine and other sporty content and watch them sell sell sell.

Sounds straightforward enough, yet surprisingly few automotive brands have dared challenge Volkswagen's three-decade-long domination of the performance-infused compact-car niche. And the few that do, including Mazdaspeed3, Honda Civic Si, Mini Cooper and most recently the Ford Focus ST, have a tough fight on their hands.

The sixth-generation GTI that came to our shores for the 2010 model year is due for replacement before spring of 2014. That means if you're looking to acquire an honest-to-goodness German-manufactured GTI, this may be your last chance. Of course the GTI shares the Golf's ability to stow about as much luggage as most mid-size sedans. That makes the GTI a useful as well as a sporty vehicle.

Gear changes can be left to the transmission to figure out or they can be controlled manually using finger-controls on the steering wheel (or by toggling the floor shifter).

Design

Since it is Golf-based, the GTI benefits from that model's uncomplicated design and generously sized hatch opening. From that point, VW replaces the nose with a blacked-out egg-crate grille and installs a larger air intake and running lights below the bumper.

Fuel Economy

Selecting the DSG assures you of rapid-fire shifts, in as little as four-hundredths of a second (faster than an average automatic transmission), and contributes to the GTI's estimated fuel economy of 8.7 l/100 km in the city and 6.3 on the highway, compared to 9.9/6.7 if you stick with the stick.

Engine

Drivers will enthuse over the standard 2.0-litre turbocharged four-cylinder engine that generates 200 horsepower and 207 pound-feet of torque. By comparison, base Golfs make do with a 2.5-litre five-cylinder with 170 horsepower and 177 pound-feet of torque.

The DSG also includes a launch-control program that, when the GTI is stopped, allows you to rev up the engine before the clutch is engaged. The result is an extra-quick start compared to manual-trans versions, with minimal wheelspin.

On the open road, the sport-tuned suspension, consisting of stiffer front and rear anti-sway bars, helps the GTI remain relatively flat through the turns while maximizing steering control. In addition, larger-diameter front and rear disc brake rotors deliver some serious stopping power for the 1,375-kilogram hatchback.

GTI pricing begins at $30,800 ($31,800 for the four-door), which includes destination charges, all the go-fast stuff plus most key comfort necessities. A more luxurious package laden with accessories will push you into the $40,000 region. However you choose to equip your GTI, you will be piloting a seriously competent sports machine famous for its quick reflexes and with a level of road-holding agility that other compact models of any stripe can only dream of.

Sublime green slime: Algae's time is now

Autopilot. It may cling to seaside rocks but it also eats carbon and makes a lot of bio fuel

AUTO PILOT
Mike Goetz
drive@metronews.ca

Mention algae today and one adjective invariably comes to mind: delicious.

But, seriously, down the road a bit, algae might be better known as a transportation bio-fuel, especially if Canada's National Research Council (NRC) has its way.

NRC recently teamed up with a few savvy industry partners to build a demonstration-scale "algan refinery" near Bonnyville, Alta., in the heart of oil-sands country.

People have long known about the bio-fuel potential of algae — it grows super fast, and it is comprised of a lot of natural oil (about 30 per cent by mass).

But this project is notable on two fronts: the way it is integrated into other industries and the size of its cultivation pot — 100,000 litres.

Give us your unwanted carbon

The project is officially known as the Algan Carbon Conversion Project. The pilot plant will be attached to another plant, part of the operations of Canadian Natural, an independent crude oil and natural gas producer. The plant has an impressive final emission stack. Like all plants, algae love carbon dioxide — it's what they breathe. So they love that emission stack. Previous efforts to commercialize bio-fuel from algae were evaluated on the bio-fuel alone, says Aleks Patrzykat. "The idea here is to have an algan plant that will capture carbon dioxide from industrial emissions."

Big pots equal big volume

The algae will be grown in one of the biggest pots ever devoted to algae production. Patrzykat says the 100,000-litre cultivation vessel should be the same large size employed by future algae bio-fuel production plants. They would just have lots of them, instead of just the one. Such a vessel full of algae would net out about 10 per cent bio-fuel, or 10,000 litres. The rest of the biomass might be messy but still good, says Patrzykat, noting that depending on local circumstances, it could be used for cattle feed or fertilizer. For the record, Patrzykat is not sure how cattle feel about the taste of algae. Since it would be used more as a protein supplement for cattle feed, my guess is that the algae flavour would be subtle, like a herb. The more important point, says Patrzykat, is that the bio-mass be something that can be used by the local economy, so you don't spend a lot of energy moving it around. It's bulky stuff. Same for the carbon dioxide going into the system; CO2 is expensive to store and transport.

Making a Dent

Usually when a new alternative fuel technology and/or fuel source comes along it's great news, but news always tempered with the reality that we use more than three trillion litres of petroleum products each and every day! Canada uses about 81 million litres a day. Excuse me for stating the obvious, but that's a lot of petroleum. How do you replace those kinds of trillions and millions of litres? Maybe you start with bio-fuel made from algae feedstock. "Say in 50 years, we have a plant in each location, where it would be viable," says Patrzykat. "That would be enough plants to take care of 20 per cent of Canadian industrial emissions… It would also give you 6.2 billion litres of fuel. If it were jet fuel, that would be enough to fly WestJet and Air Canada for a year."

Keeps you awake

Unfortunately, collisions that involve sleepy drivers are on the rise. One way to protect yourself and others is to get yourself a Nap Zapper (also marketed under the name Drive Alert). Once the anti-drowse alarm is positioned behind and around the ear, it can "sense" from the downward rotation of your head that you could be nodding off. It then sounds an alert that's loud enough to jolt any sleep-deprived driver, hopefully before a collision occurs. And the Nap Zapper is easy to fit around your ear since it weighs just five ounces, or 140 grams. For safety's sake, pick up Nap Zapper for about $10 US at napzapper.com.

Change for gas

Here's a neat way of teaching kids (or people of any age, for that matter) the value of a tank of fuel. The Fill 'Er Up gas tank coin bank from Fred and Friends Products features an actual working gauge that moves from empty to full as you deposit your coins. Note, however, that if you're depositing just pennies, nickels and dimes instead of quarters, you likely won't be able to buy too much at the pumps once the 9.6- x 12.2- x 12.2-centimetre tank bank is full. Fred and Friends sells the Fill 'Er Up bank for $13 US through various online resellers, including amazon.com and baronbob.com.

Canada license plates made by the inmates

Driving Force.
Whether it be regular or personalized, 800 are made an hour by the country's prisons

JIL MCINTOSH
drive@metronews.ca

With more than 1.6 million new vehicles sold every year, Canadians need a lot of license plates to go on them. It's a full-time job making them, but you wouldn't want to apply for it in Ontario: they're made by prison inmates.

"Ontario license plates are manufactured at the Lindsay Correctional Facility," says Ciaran Ganley, spokesman for the Ministry of Government Services. "Most vehicle license plates appear in pairs, but other motor vehicles have a single license plate, including motorcycle, off-road, moped and trailer."

Making a plate is a five-step process, starting with the production of blanks, which are plates that don't yet have their numbers. A laminate sheet is made that includes "Ontario" at the top and a slogan at the bottom, usually "Yours to Discover."

The laminate is glued onto a coil of aluminum, and a press stamps out individual plates and cuts mounting holes into them. Some 800 are made each hour.

The blanks go to an embossing press, where workers set in the dies to stamp the letters and numbers. Regular plates go quickly, since only one or two numbers must be changed in sequence. Personalized plates slow everything down, since the die has to be completely reset. If a pair of plates is needed, the machine stamps two blanks at once.

To colour the letters and numbers, the plate is fed into a machine that uses heat to apply a foil coating to the raised portion.

Quoted

"Ontario plates are manufactured at the Lindsay Correctional facility."

Ciaran Ganley, spokesperson for the Ministry of Government Services
On where vehicle license plates come from in Ontario.

Finally, the plates are put in plastic bags and visually inspected for quality. Any defective plates are destroyed, while the rest are boxed for distribution.

Ontario plates are colour-coded.

Car, motorcycle and trailer plates use blue letters on a white background. Commercial vehicle, bus and farm plates use black on white; diplomat plates are white on red; dealer plates are red on white; and green plates are for electric vehicles.

"For personalized plates, any combination of letters or numbers may be ordered, provided the combination is available and meets the established criteria," Ganley says. Off-limits are plates deemed obscene, derogatory, abusive, sexual, religious (except for religious titles), violent, discriminatory, or that describe drugs, alcohol, or criminal activity.

Things to note

- Until 1973, Ontario motorists got new license plates annually, stamped with the year. Renewal stickers were introduced for 1974.
- Most series plates (non-personalized) do not use G, I, O, Q or U, which could cause readability issues for law enforcement purposes.
- Ontario plates can be ordered with the French version of the province's "Yours to Discover" slogan, "Tant à découvrir."

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Treat life as one big party and that is exactly what it will be, to you at least. Actually it's you who is the party — wherever you go fun and laughter goes.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
You need to develop a more detached view of possessions. What happens over the next few days will make you realize that there are many more important things in this life than dollars and cents.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
With Mercury, your ruler, moving into your sign today, you won't lack for ideas or the energy necessary to carry them out. Don't try to change the world: just do one little thing better than everyone else.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You must not allow yourself to get depressed, no matter how disheartening the news may be. The key to happiness and success is your imagination: Take negative emotions and use them in positive ways.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
There is a lot you can do to change people's attitudes but that does not mean you will succeed. You have a right to have your say, but others have the right to disagree.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
As you think so you are, so think only positive thoughts today and watch in amazement how quickly and easily your dreams come true. Make sure important people know what you can do.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Don't waste time asking friends if they approve of what you intend to do: just do it and let them take it any way they want. The time has come to be decisive. Yes, you can do it!

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You will be at your most resolute today. You won't let anyone stop you from following your star. Just make sure your aims are not too outrageous. Listen to expert advice, and maybe act on it.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
There is no way you can avoid facing the harsh truth about a partnership or friendship that is going through choppy waters at the moment. Once that truth has been faced though you can start making positive changes.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You may think you can push yourself beyond your usual limits with no ill effects but common sense says otherwise. If you don't listen, you may have to deal with an unexpected wellbeing issue.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Something you have been wishing for no longer looks so unlikely and over the next few days you can take giant steps towards making it a reality. All things are possible.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Some kind of showdown is likely today but that's good because the air needs to be cleared. Once it is done, make clear to loved ones you don't hold a grudge. SALLY BROMPTON
